

PRESS RELEASE

Artelia confirms its development with significantly increased results in 2014 and order books providing excellent visibility for the future.

This year Artelia celebrates the fifth anniversary of the merger that resulted in the birth of the current group and once again publishes promising results for the year 2014. Business continues to grow, with a turnover of 364 million euros, net fees increasing by 7% compared with 2013, and order books representing more than a year's work. The group's operating income has risen by 8% to reach 15.6 million euros. These strong results are an incentive to continue developing the group on an international level and with regard to major multidisciplinary projects, two of Artelia's key strategic areas.

These figures reinforce the independence of a group that continues to invest in innovation (more than 3% of its turnover), safety and diversity, and that transferred 30% of its capital to its younger managers in 2014.

The start of the year 2015 was in line with this dynamic, with the acquisition of two engineering and project management firms – Sher, in Belgium, and Intertecno, in Italy – which represent a total of approximately 150 staff members and a cumulative turnover of 18 million euros.

The 2014 annual report, which was published on 11 May 2015 in the original French version, can be consulted and downloaded on the group's website: www.arteliagroup.com. The English version will be available beginning June.
